For Immediate Release: June 28, 2005

Nurse to Spearhead Clinical Product Development at Stinger Medical

(MURFREESBORO, TENNESSEE. June 28, 2005) Today, Stinger Medical announced that Debbie Carr, RN, BSN, has joined Stinger as Engineering Project Manager.

Ms. Carr has more than 15 years of staff, supervisory, and managerial experience in hospital and clinical settings across the US. Her experience includes, but is not limited to: ICU, CCI, ER, MEDSURG, PACO and Telehealth environments. Ms. Carr has worked at non-profit, public, private and federal government healthcare facilities ranging in size from remote clinics to Level I trauma centers.

“Ms. Carr is a great addition to our team. Her expertise in nursing will ensure that Stinger Medical continues to provide clinical solutions directly addressing the needs of our customers,” said Patrick Jensen, Ph.D. Vice President of Engineering at Stinger Medical.

Initially, Ms. Carr will be focusing on existing products such as the integrity® automated vital signs acquisition device. She will look for new enhancements that can be made to the design, software, manuals and training programs already offered by Stinger. Ms. Carr will then lend her clinical experience to Stinger Medical’s new product development team.

Ms. Carr is a Registered Nurse and has earned a Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree from Middle Tennessee State University. She is a member of the American Nursing Association, the American Telemedicine Association, and the American Nursing Informatics Association.
